

Make an Enemy in 6 easy steps...

1. maintain a fear of conflict
 2. be vague, never specific when communicating a problem
 3. assume that you know all the facts and that you alone are right.
 4. judge the motives of the opposition, quick to conclude ill intentions.
 5. always conclude a win / lose scenario, with not to many options
 6. pass the buck if you get cornered into a possible solution.

Hatfields and McCoys - during the civil war 1863-1891

2 Rival loggers and moonshiners in west virginia and kentucky argued over a murder and a pig.

The feud reached its peak during the 1888 New Year's Night Massacre. Cap and Vance led several members of the Hatfield clan to surround the McCoy cabin and opened fire on the sleeping family. Awoken by the shooting, the McCoys managed to grab their weapons and fired back. The cabin was then set on fire in an effort to drive the McCoys into the open.
