

What if Jesus were a Democrat?

7-26-22

Is it possible that God does not fit all your preconceived notions?

Was it possible that most of the Jewish Nation rejected Christ as messiah because he didn't fit their narrative?

Was Jesus Jewish? He was born into their culture, laws, & faith, but then turned it upside down!

To all the Jewish Israelites and Zionists... what if he were the messiah?

2600 years ago, Aprox 1.5 million left Egypt with Moses

1948 – less than 1 million were residents in The newly formed Nation.

2022 - 15 million Jewish people on earth, 9.5 million in Israel.

Aprox 15,000 are messianic Jews worldwide, 144,000 will turn to Christ in the great tribulation.

It is currently illegal to proselytize in Jerusalem

To be anti-semitic is to be hostile or prejudice against jewish people.

1.8 Billion Muslims on earth hate jews because of the Issac / Ishmael story.

Kike is an ethnic slur for a Jewish person. There are multiple theories about where the term might have emerged. One popular theory is that it is derived from the Yiddish word for circle, "kikel," a reference to how Jewish immigrants at Ellis Island signed their entry forms: a circle as opposed to an X, which Jews associated with the cross of Christianity. Immigration officers described those who signed forms with a circle as "kikel," eventually being shortened to "kike." Kike is a highly offensive term used to insult and denigrate people of Jewish faith or ethnicity that is widely considered to be a form of hate speech. Christians believed that this circle was a public outspoken rejection of Christ as messiah.

Does God love jews more than others?

Will jews go to heaven without Christ?

Are Jews conservative? (protect their culture and way of life) so are Amish, Mennonites, and evangelicals.

Should we protect that which is sacred or holy?

Should we be open minded, include other views, and or be progressive and liberal?

Is America a new country, with new ideas? Have we been inclusive and progressive? Open minded?

Does every generation learn and grow from new ideas?

Were pharisees conservative? Protective?

Did Jesus confront the representatives of jewish faith?

Are all open minded viewpoints moral or beneficial?

Did Jesus come to do away with the law?

Did Jesus argue with “keepers of the law”? (Pharisees were spiritual lawyers)

Was Jesus an enigma? Were people around him conflicted?

(confused and inconsistent feelings)

a person or thing that is mysterious, puzzling, or difficult to understand.

Did he fit into any mold? Party? Government?

To be precise, Jesus asks 307 questions. He is asked 183 of which he only answers 3. Asking questions was central to Jesus' life and teachings. In fact, for every question he answers directly he asks—literally—a hundred.

Who did God entrust / hold responsible for social welfare of widows and orphans, poor, foreigners? The Church or secular governments?

Are there rules, limits and boundaries for helping?

Liberals/progressives will argue that the government should be greatly involved in providing social services, caring for the poor, sick, orphans, widows, unemployed, etc., pointing to Scriptures such as James 1:27. If these social services result in more governmental control, liberals/progressives are willing to make that sacrifice. Conservatives argue that the more freedom a society/economy has, the more prosperous it becomes. Liberals/progressives argue that some prosperity should be sacrificed for the "greater good." So, while one economic/societal/political system may be "better," neither is inherently evil/immoral/sinful. Both systems have strengths and weaknesses, and, historically speaking, both systems have proven themselves capable of fulfilling the basic biblical responsibility of government.

capitalism or socialism. God has given governments the freedom to have as much authority as is needed to fulfill their God-given roles of enforcing justice and building order in society (Romans 13:1-7). So, in regards to the size and scope of government, Christians can be libertarian, conservative, liberal, or progressive. None of those persuasions are inherently evil or ungodly. The argument should be over which system best enables the government to fulfill its God-given role.

Politically conservative Christians will argue that as governments get bigger and more powerful, personal freedom decreases, and if left unchecked, government will bloat itself into a controlling, authoritarian, and oppressive dictatorship. Historically speaking, there is much evidence to support this argument.

Liberals/progressives will argue that the government should be greatly involved in providing social services, caring for the poor

Let every person be subject to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and those that exist have been instituted by God....

What does Jesus say about authority? ^

The authorities that exist have been established by God. Consequently, he who rebels against the authority is rebelling against what God has instituted, and those who do so will bring judgment on themselves. For rulers hold no terror for those who do right, but for those who do wrong.

While issues such as the size/scope of government and economic systems are not explicitly addressed in Scripture, there definitely are some political issues the Bible does address, such as abortion (Genesis 1:26-27; 9:6; Exodus 21:22-25; Psalm 139:13-16; Jeremiah 1:5) and gay marriage (Leviticus 18:22; Romans 1:26-27; 1 Corinthians 6:9). For the Bible-believing Christian, abortion is not a matter of a woman's right to choose. It is a matter of the life or death of a human being made in God's image. Endorsing gay marriage is giving approval to a lifestyle choice the Bible condemns as immoral and unnatural. Therefore, Bible-believing Christians should support issues/candidates that are pro-life and should support issues/candidates that oppose gay marriage and uphold the biblical/traditional understanding of marriage. Whether these two issues should trump all other issues is a matter of personal conviction.
